an examination of the palladian style inspired by the classicism of italian architect palladio

while the themes sources and materials of the palladian landscape span a range of disciplinary interests from art and architectural studies economic social and environmental history to philosophy and renaissance humanism denis cosgrove seeks to provide a geographical interpretation of a region of northern italy in the specific period of the late renaissance however he goes much further using the thoughts designs and commissions of the architect palladio as the central thread to weave a picture of a place venice that is in a period of crisis as it seeks to survive a transition from a maritime power hinterland to a new land based terraferma as a cultural geographer he seeks to understand how groups come to terms with and transform their material environments and he therefore pays special attention to the intellectual forces and spiritual sensibilities that empower those groups as well as to the economic social and environmental constraints with which they have to contend although these two broad realms of human experience are often studied separately cosgrove brings them together in this study he uses the leitmotif of architecture and specifically the work of andrea palladio to describe a localized transformation of the natural world into a landscape of expression of cultural meaning beyond this leitmotif the work adopts an essay structure in which each chapter stands somewhat separately as a spatial narrative it moves from the imperial city of venice into its italian territories and thence from city to rural landscape to specific country estates having described localized transformations of urban and rural landscapes cosgrove then expands the scale again to consider hydrological engineering in the venetian territories and some of the techniques involved in surveying and mapping the landscape these return the reader to the more global view of a venetian mentalité coming to terms with a changing geographical and historical world map in 1726 richard boyle 3rd earl of burlington built an addition to his modest country house on the river thames at chiswick the structure was a free standing villa which is the subject of this book the author explores the villa s architectural inspiration and the evolution of its design george washington s mount vernon brings together for the first time the details of washington s 45 year endeavor to build and perfect mount vernon in doing so it introduces us to a washington few of his contemporaries knew and one little noticed by historians since here we meet the planter patriot who also genuinely loved building a man passionately human in his desire to impress on his physical surroundings the stamp of his character and personal beliefs as chief architect and planner of the countless changes made at mount vernon over the years washington began by imitating accepted models of fashionable taste but as time passed he increasingly followed his own ideas hence architecturally as the authors show mount vernon blends the orthodox and the innovative in surprising ways just as the new american nation would equally interesting is the light the book sheds on the process of building at mount vernon and on the people slave and free who did the work washington was a demanding master and in their determination to preserve their own independence his workers often clashed with him yet as the dalzells argue that experience played a vital role in shaping his hopes for the future of american society hope that embraced in full measure the promise of the revolution in which he had led his fellow citizens george washington s mount vernon thus compellingly combines the two sides of washington s life the public and the private and uses the combination to enrich our understanding of both gracefully written with more than 80 photographs maps and engravings the book tells a fascinating story with memorable insight drawing on palladio s original published legacy of approximately 40 designs the authors attempt to reveal the rigorous geometric rules by which palladio conceived these structures using a computer they test each rule in every possible application this acclaimed translation of michel delon s dictionnaire europ en des lumires contains more than 350 signed entries covering the art economics science history philosophy and religion of the enlightenment delon s team of more than 200 experts from around the world offers a unique perspective on the period providing offering not only factual information but also critical opinions that give the reader a deeper level of understanding an international team of translators editors and advisers under the auspices of the french ministry of culture has brought this collection of scholarship to the english speaking world for the first time during the second half of the eighteenth century british architecture moved away from the dominant school of classicism in favour of a more creative freedom of expression at the forefront of this change were architect brothers robert and james adam kondo s work places them within the context of eighteenth century intellectual thought
