responding to the oppression of addiction brings together the voices of over 40 academics and social work practitioners from across canada to provide a diverse and multidimensional perspective to the study of addiction this thoroughly updated edition features eight new chapters and streamlines the content of the previous editions with chapters condensed and combined to create a more accessible text the fourth edition features new content on themes such as residential schools prevention initiatives special needs of different populations policy perspectives framed within an anti oppression standpoint cognitive behavioral therapy and the emerging topic of problem gambling returning chapters have been updated with contributors providing more in depth examinations of trauma informed approaches the entire volume has a strengthened anti oppressive framework on both an overarching and by chapter level this celebrated and varied collection is an indispensable resource for upper level students graduate students and practitioners working in the fields of social work addictions studies and the helping professions features thoroughly updated chapter by chapter content grounded in an anti oppressive framework with deeper exploration of trauma informed approaches provides an authoritative analysis of the practices and policies that contribute to the construction of the meaning of addiction through a canadian lens indigenous women continue to be overrepresented in canadian prisons research demonstrates how their overincarceration and often extensive experiences of victimization are interconnected with and through ongoing processes of colonization implicating the system judicial discourses in the sentencing of indigenous women explores how judges navigate these issues in sentencing by examining related discourses in selected judgments from a review of 175 decisions the feminist theory of the victimization criminalization continuum informs elspeth kaiser derrick's work she examines its overlap with the gladue analysis foregrounding decisions that effectively integrate gendered understandings of indigenous women's victimization histories and problematizing those with less contextualized reasoning ultimately she contends that judicial use of the victimization criminalization continuum deepens the gladue analysis and augments its capacity to further its objectives of alternatives to incarceration kaiser derrick discusses how judicial discourses about victimization intersect with those about rehabilitation and treatment and suggests associated problems particularly where prison is characterized as a place of healing finally she shows how recent incursions into judicial discretion through legislative changes to the conditional sentencing regime that restrict the availability of alternatives to incarceration are particularly concerning for indigenous women in the system while almost all universal health coverage in canada is provided under the canada health act there is medicare coverage that is provided outside of the act this is the first book to explain the nature of these boundary health services why they exist and how to navigate them in practice the boundaries of medicare examines the complex range of public health care services and coverage arrangements that predate or have developed alongside the canada health act these provisions including for workers compensation military personnel and veterans incarcerated persons migrants and indigenous peoples are often not well understood even by those working at policy and delivery levels katherine fierlbeck and gregory marchildon aim to improve understanding of these boundary services why they were established who is eligible for them how services are provided how they are paid for and how they are managed within a multilevel governance system they also look at the dramatic increase in virtual health care services since the onset of the covid 19 pandemic and their relationship to the canada health act explaining the origins operations and tensions of government funded health care outside the canada health act the boundaries of medicare is an essential resource for policymakers providers administrators and patients seeking to navigate medicare in canada built around the experiences of older prisoners punished for aging looks at the challenges individuals face in canadian penitentiaries and their struggles for justice through firsthand accounts and quantitative data drawn from extensive interviews this book brings forward the experiences of federally incarcerated people living their golden years behind bars these experiences show the limited ability of the system to respond to heightened needs while also raising questions about how international and national laws and policies are applied and why they fail to ensure the safety and well being of incarcerated individuals in so doing adelina iftene explores the shortcomings of institutional processes prison monitoring mechanisms and legal remedies available in courts and tribunals which leave prisoners vulnerable to rights abuses some of the problems addressed in this book are not new however the demographic shift and the increase in people dying in prisons after long inadequately addressed illnesses with few release options adds a renewed sense of urgency to reform working from the interview data contextualized by participants lived experiences and building on previous work iftene seeks solutions for such reform which would constitute a significant step forward not only in protecting older prisoners but in consolidating the status of incarcerated individuals as holders of substantive rights prisons don t work but prisoners do prisons are often critiqued as unjust but we hear little about the daily labour of incarcerated workers what they do how they do it who they do it for and under which conditions unions protect workers fighting for better pay and against discrimination and occupational health and safety concerns but prisoners are denied this protection despite being the lowest paid workers with the least choice in what they do the most vulnerable among the working class starting from the perspective that work during imprisonment is not rehabilitative this book examines the reasons why people should care about prison labour and how prisoners have struggled to organize for labour power in the past unionizing incarcerated workers is critical for both the labour movement and struggles for prison justice this book argues to negotiate changes to working conditions as well as the power dynamics within prisons themselves
